The Lantern

Volume 6 No 4 Autumn 2017

Friday 29th September

Dear Everyone

I hope you are well.

Thank you to those 80% of parents who are regularly supporting their children at home with tests and reading and homework. It is much appreciated by us and your child!

If you are one of the few who hasn't found the time to support your child, can I ask you to start afresh this year by doing so. I estimate that support from home is worth at least ten percentage points in an exam. When we remember that the difference between pass and fail is just 1%, it really can make all the difference.

God Bless

Gary

Parent/ Teacher Consultations

I hope you found the new electronic appointment system worked well for you. There are bound to be a few teething problems when we introduce something new like this but I think it went smoothly.

I hope too that those of you who met with teachers last evening found the meetings useful.

We look forward to welcoming the remainder of our parents into school next Thursday.

Please do remember not to park over neighbours' drives. The church car park is available to use and the back pedestrian gate will be open.

Tutoring After School

One of the things that makes our school special is the after-school tutoring that we offer for those children who need extra help to make their grades. The tutoring is offered free of charge to parents and I am pleased to say there is a 95% take up year-on-year. My thanks to you our parents and to the staff for the commitment that you each show to the children in our care.

Tutoring invitations will come home shortly and all tutoring will begin immediately we return from half-term. Sessions will then run right through to May half-term.

Thought for The Week

In assembly this week, we heard how the vineyard owner paid those who worked just an hour for him the same as those who worked the whole day. This was thought to be unfair by those who had worked throughout the day in the hot sun. The stories that Jesus told were designed to pull people up short, to make us think in a different way. We can probably all relate to the unfairness of the situation. This parable was crafted to make us see that those who find God late in their lives will be as warmly welcomed into Heaven as those who have worshipped him all their lives. For some people, it is only when they are faced with death that they are able to focus on God and what is truly important. I think that is a reassuring message rather than an unfair one: we want our God to be all forgiving and all welcoming, don't we?

Policies

The school has recently updated its exclusion policy, which is to be found on our website.

Maths Known Facts

From time to time the children will encounter the facts they have learnt in a question that is unfamiliar to them. They have to be able to apply what they have learnt to different questions because we don't know the questions that will be posed to them in their tests.
